Agricultural Science for the Caribbean 2 Ralph Persad, 2014-11 Agricultural Science for the Caribbean is a well established and highly successful three year course for lower Secondary schools. The emphasis is on observation and practical activity, encouraging students to develop a hands-on attitude to agriculture. Students are encouraged to find out more about agriculture local to their homes so that they can relate and apply their learning to individual experiences and environments.

Science for Agriculture Wallace E. Huffman, Robert E. Evenson, 2008-02-28 Science for Agriculture was the first thorough quantitative and analytical treatment of the history of the U.S. agricultural research system and as such has served as the foundation for research over the 10 years since its publication. The benefits from public and private investment in agricultural research are immense and should be understood by every student of the agricultural science system in the United States. The second edition updates important landmarks, components, characteristics, and trends of the U.S. system for developing and applying science to increase the productivity and advancements of agriculture. Science for Agriculture, 2nd Edition, is essential reading for agriculture educators and researchers, Land Grant administrators, food and agri-industry R&D and all others who need to understand the factors that will influence future public agricultural research policy.

The Science of Agriculture H. R. Herren, Ray V. Herren, 1996 This text presents an integrated science-based approach to teaching agricultural science. Developed in conjunction with both science and agriculture teachers, the text aims to present a balanced approach to biology, chemistry and physics

Agricultural Science: Conventional and Organic Farming Magen Kensington,2023-09-26 Agricultural science is a multidisciplinary field of biology, which includes components of economic, natural and social sciences. These components are utilized in the study and practice of agriculture. The two types of farming which are studied within agricultural science are conventional farming and organic farming. Conventional farming is a method which involves the usage of pesticides and other chemicals for obtaining highest production of crops. Organic farming is an agricultural approach which emphasizes on methods of companion planting and crop rotation along with the utilization of organic fertilizers including bone meal, compost manure and green manure. There is a significant distinction between organic and conventional farming in terms of tools and methods used to cultivate crops, but they also have varied ethics and principles. Organic farming strives to maintain the quality of ecology, water and land, whereas conventional farming solely looks for increased profits and yields.
